ANCC Launches New Professional Development Resources Webpage

Silver Spring, MD – The American Nurses Credentialing Center (ANCC) has launched new Staff Development Resources and Faculty Resources pages on its website. These web pages group the key resources that are helpful for staff development personnel, faculty, and education coordinators in two easy-to-access locations. Both pages can be found by going to the ANCC website, www.nursecredentialing.org and clicking on the certification tab, under ‘Services.’

Both web pages include free tools to help encourage certification. These include DVDs explaining the benefits of nursing certification, applications for ANCC exams, reproducible flyers on nursing certification, information on accrediting your continuing education program, schedules of nursing conferences at which ANCC will be exhibiting, and other useful information.

The Faculty Resources page has additional information relevant to the faculty and students, including, for example, information on universities’ collaboration with Magnet recognized hospitals, and the publication: Magnet Recognition Program Explained—A Brochure for Students.

ANCC is committed to providing staff development personnel and faculty with the resources they need to encourage board certification for the nurses that they teach and mentor. Evidence is mounting that nurse certification contributes to better patient outcomes. ANCC is committed to maintaining communication with all stakeholders in nursing education and professional development, and providing resources and support.
